Event Report:

We had cloudy sidewalk astronomy in downtown northfield. Despite the clouds, which were thick, we still went downtown with a Galileoscope, an astroscan, and a 8" meade. We had buttons for Galilean nights which were a big hit! We also passed out info on some Galiloscope projects going around in town, and Carleton's observatory's Public Evenings, which are every first friday of the month. November's will be having talks about Galileo and current astronomy weather it's cloudy or clear (7-9pm).
